The 2008 TCG National Conference: Theatre at the Center, being held in conjunction with National Performing Arts Convention 2008, will address important questions regarding theatre's relevance in today's world. Is theatre "at the center"? Or out on the edge? Is there a place for theatre in the center of a national dialogue?

Theatre Communications Group is proud to join more than 20 national performing arts organizations to present NPAC, a place for the performing arts community to come together like never before.
